

Frank So

Frank So's job is to make the world a better place. He has served to support human rights and conflict resolution in a variety of settings, including Portland, OR; Central and Southern America; Sudan; and Pakistan. Frank helps build relationships to connect government agencies, non-governmental organizations and individuals to one another.

Frank started serving as the Senior Mission Adviser for USAID/Colombia in March 2019 where he coordinates USAID's efforts on Venezuela with the international donor community, multilateral organizations, the Government of Colombia, Government of Venezuela, the USG interagency.

Frank previously served as Mission Adviser with USAID Honduras from 2017-2019 where he managed efforts to foster stronger ties with the human rights community and promote justice for the most vulnerable. Frank also served as the acting USAID Country Adviser in Venezuela and worked with USAID's Office of Transition Initiatives as a Worldwide Advisor to the Haiti, Mali, Pakistan, Ukraine missions and Washington.

Prior to joining USAID, Frank worked with the International Organization for Migration (IOM) and the United Nations in Darfur.

Frank has a Masters in Conflict Studies from the University of Ulster. He has served on the Hillary Clinton Presidential Campaign Global Development Advisory Committee and Advance Team in 2015-2016 as well as the Obama Presidential Advance Team.