

ASSP Annual Leadership Conference

INVEST IN YOUR SAFETY AND HEALTH TEAM

Volunteer leaders are critical to ASSP's success, our many member communities and the occupational safety and health (OSH) industry in general. We are dedicated to providing our members practical knowledge and leadership skills development such as working with teams, effective communication, and business planning so they can help your organization to be successful.

Each year, ASSP extends exclusive invitations to our volunteer leaders, including your employee, to attend our Leadership Conference. Those who are invited to join us attend a variety of sessions facilitated by experts and practitioners that will expose them to trends and best practices in leadership development and enable them to utilize this knowledge in their positions with ASSP and their professional career with your organization.

Specifically, your employee will:

- Develop leadership and problem-solving skills that are transferable to the workplace
- Learn best practices and meet key ASSP leaders
- Network with other leaders in safety to find solutions to your organization's challenges
- Earn continuing education units for attending the conference
- Become more effective in their role at your organization

This year's Leadership Conference is now virtual and will take place on October 1-2, 2020. Your employee will experience two days of educational sessions, learning opportunities and networking experiences that they can access through their computer with audio and internet access.
